SUMMARY OF PROJECT

According to both, the UN and the EU, climate change is the biggest collective, environmental challenge society faces today. Notwithstanding, youth and particularly youth from rural areas often do not have the relevant skills and opportunities to make their voice heard and advocate for a greener future. Therefore, our project aims at empowering youth, mainly from rural areas in Sweden, Denmark, Lithuania, Turkey, Jordan, Russia, Belarus, Ukraine, Romania and Morocco to formulate and communicate their concerns about climate change with decision-makers, and advocate for their right to a healthy, sustainable and safe environment on an international, national and local level. Throughout the project, climate change is seen a challenge that has to be tackled by the international community and therefore serves as a platform for international exchange and collaboration.

The international training will empower 59 young people, mainly from rural areas in Sweden, Denmark, Lithuania, Turkey, Jordan, Russia, Belarus, Ukraine, Romania and Morocco, to advocate their right to a healthy, safe and sustainable environment by using non-formal learning principles in order to strengthen their advocacy and debating skills.

Moreover, climate change as a global issue with severe local effects will serve as a platform to promote intercultural exchange and dialogue among youth from Sweden, Denmark, Lithuania, Turkey, Jordan, Russia, Belarus, Ukraine, Romania and Morocco. The common development of a youth manifesto raising concerns and wishes of the participating youth regarding climate change will be a main output of the training.

Each day will start with physical activities and presentations in pairs of learning points from the day before and every evening will conclude with sharing of learning points in pairs
